

Mutual confidentiality agreement

SYNTHETIC TEST FIXTURE - invented content, not a real agreement or legal advice.

Agreement terms

1. Parties and purpose

Example Customer and Example Supplier wish to evaluate a fictional document-review project. Either party may disclose confidential information for that purpose. This synthetic agreement starts on 1 January 2026.

2. Confidential information

Confidential information means non-public project plans, pricing and technical material identified as confidential when shared. It excludes information already public, independently developed, or lawfully received without a confidentiality duty.

3. Reciprocal obligations

Each receiving party must use the information only for the stated purpose, protect it with reasonable care, and share it only with representatives who need it and have equivalent confidentiality obligations.

4. Required disclosure

If disclosure is legally required, the receiving party may disclose the required portion and, where permitted, notify the disclosing party before disclosure.

5. Term and return

Either party may end discussions with written notice. On request, each party must return or delete the other party's confidential information, except one restricted archival copy. The confidentiality obligation survives for two years after the discussions end.

6. No further commitment

Neither party is required to enter another agreement. Each party retains its existing intellectual property. No signature, personal information or real transaction is represented by this test document.